Slovenian association for transplantation
UMC Ljubljana

Invitation to Symposium

Modern approach in induction therapy in SOT

Date: Friday, 3. 2. 2012
Time: 11.00 – 13.00
Location: UMC Ljubljana, Ground Floor, Room III
Language: English
Lecturers:

Valentin Sojar

President of Slovenian association for transplantation, Consultant Surgeon at UMC Ljubljana

Federico Oppenheimer

Head of the Renal Transplant Unit, Hospital Clinic, Barcelona
Major Research Interests Areas: Ischaemia reperfusion injury, Acute and chronic rejection, Pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic monitoring of immunosuppression therapy, HCV hepatitis and renal transplantation, Cardiovascular risk factors and transplantation, Transplantation in elderly patients

Andres Beiras-Fernandez

Professor of Experimental Cardiac Surgery at the JW Goethe University of Frankfurt. Consultant cardiac surgeon at the University Hospital. Responsible for the Heart Insufficiency Programme (Heart Trx. and VAD). Director of the experimental unit in Cardiothoracic Surgery. Main research interest in immunosuppression and endothelial reactions, adhesion molecules and heart insufficiency. German transplantation Prize 2010.
AGENDA:

11.00 h  Workshop opening, introduction
Valentin Sojar, Ljubljana

11.10 h  New Strategies in use of ATG-Fresenius for the optimization of the immunosuppression
in kidney transplantation
Federico Oppenheimer, Barcelona

11.55 h  Mechanisms of Action of ATGs: current and future uses
Andres Beiras-Fernandez, Frankfurt

12.40 h  Discussion and round table

After discussion you are kindly invited to lunch buffet.
Please confirm participation at the symposium to:

Mrs. Lea Lampret

Tel: + 386 1 3006860

E-mail: lea.lampret@slovenija-transplant.si

Organiser applied for CME credit points.

No registration fee.